Saturday Night's Concert

Was well attended, the house being crowded in every section. The programme, although long, was faithfully carried out, and finished a little before 11 o'clock, when everybody departed thoroughly pleased with the evening's entertainment.

The applause was hearty and frequent encores were given, which were invariably responded to. The success of the evening was Mr. Kohler's solo performances on the French Flageolet and Ocarina. The Nightingale Polka, on the former, with variations imitating the calls of different birds was superb. It excelled any playing ever heard here.

In the first part the most successful numbers were Mr. Drill's "Speak to me, speak," and Mr. Fisher's "Leave me not in anger, darling." The tableau, "Slavery Days," fairly brought down the house, and the curtain had to be raised again in response to the unanimous wish of the audience.

Messrs. Young and Rafferty in their double song and dance were so pleasing that they received a double encore. Our Hawaiian Quartette sang splendidly. Their voices were really fine and the harmony was so blended as to call forth the highest encomiums from musical critics.

The Ole Log Cabin, by G. W. Miller, was splendidly rendered, and in fact throughout the evening was a succession of pleasant surprises. We hope that the entertainment will be repeated before the Alaska leaves us.

HAVE you got that big fan yet?

Was it a pleasant moonlight row?
And did it hurt the gate much?

HIS MAJESTY gave a grand lusu at Waikiki on Saturday.

The Church-bells tolled for the Liquor Bill last night.

Who left their carriage standing on the plains beyond Palama till 3 o'clock in the morning.

The Fire Department did not hold their drill on Saturday, as announced, on account of the scarcity of water.

The Hawaiian Caricaturist has been at work again. See his satirical cartoon on the liquor bill coming into operation on Monday.

"The road from Honolulu to Waialua is now in excellent condition."—Saturday Press. To break a man's neck?

SATURDAY'S sale brought fair prices. The Coaly premises were bought by Capt. Mist for $6,200. Everybody thinks it was cheap.

Dr. and Mrs. Smith's Golden Wedding is the third that has occurred amongst the Missionaries, the other two being Rev. T. Alexander of Maui and Rev. D. B. Lyman of Hilo.

FORMERLY there was a lamp at the corner of Alakea and Queen streets. Now there is none. Where it has gone to nobody knows, but everyone passing that way at night feels the loss of it as the corner is so terribly dark.

The waxworks exhibition opens to-day. It will be well worth seeing and we especially urge our friends not to miss hearing the Brothers Kohler play on the varied collection of instruments.

The New Liquor Law comes into operation to-day. It remains to be seen whether the Hawaiian will fall or will withstand the temptation and keep on his way nobler and purer than before. But many false friends of the natives will encourage them to drink to-day; saying "Rejoice, for you are free." Better would it be for them to say, "This day, abstain ye from it. Be strong and quit yourselves like men."

We call our readers' attention to the advertisement of Messrs. Ashley & Co., in another column. Mr. Ashley is well known to the customers of Dillingham & Co., having been in their employ over a year.

We heard on Saturday that an American citizen of the name of Sears came in on the Kilauea Hou, from Mahukona, crazy and destitute. He was lugged off to the Insane Asylum by a policeman who held on to a piece of Manila rope tied on to his handcuffs. Whose business is it to inquire into this treatment?

On Saturday night a private carriage was fastened to the railing in front of the Aliiolani Hale, while the owner was inside enjoying the concert. By some means or other the horse got its head out of the bridle, and ran away, finally overturning and making a complete wreck of the carriage between the Music Hall and the Government building.

Thus the fiftieth or Golden Anniversary of the wedding of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Lowell Smith. It was to have been celebrated by festivities but owing to the lamented death of Mr. C. T. Dillingham they will merely receive their friends at their home in Nuuanu Valley. The principal exercises will take place at 4 p.m., but the Rev. Dr. and his wife will be at home to receive their friends from 2 p.m.

Blue Gum Leaves.

We extract the following from the Melbourne Bulletin and allow it to speak for itself:

"A farmer of our acquaintance speaks very confidently of the good qualities of the decoction of blue gum leaves as a tonic in cases of sickness. His wife had been for some time very sick, when a friend recommended him to give her tea brewed from blue gum leaves, when the effect upon her was almost miraculous. Since then she has not been ailing. He also experienced similar benefits from the remedy in case of ailments to himself. A correspondent to a Southern contemporary states that he is acquainted with three persons who had been thoroughly cured of rheumatism by sleeping on beds made entirely of these leaves. Those used were of a round shape, growing on young plants, and nearest to the ground. It is well-known that a dozen of these leaves made into a decoction of tea are good for a cold or inflamed eyes.
